Thank you for entering the 2026 SIMNA Awards!

Outstanding Collaboration in Social Impact Measurement

To be in the running for this award please complete and submit this application form. The questions relate to the judging criteria, so you are encouraged to complete all sections.

Eligibility

Organisations may apply multiple times. However, you may only be considered for one category in the 2026 SIMNA Awards for each project or initiative. This application form is for the Outstanding Collaboration in Social Impact Measurement Award.

The Outstanding Collaboration Award recognises place-based, systems change, and other collaborative initiatives that demonstrate genuine shared responsibility and power sharing in social impact measurement. It celebrates partnerships where partners work together and/or communities and program participants co-lead or co-govern the design, decision-making, and interpretation of measurement, evaluation, and learning.

Consultants and advisors may contribute expertise and may themselves be partners in the initiative. However, eligible collaborations must demonstrate shared ownership, influence, and decision-making among multiple partners and/or communities. A traditional client-consultant relationship, on its own, does not meet the intent of this award. Strong collaboration in impact measurement creates more relevant, credible, and useful insights, helping align partners, strengthen local ecosystems, and support equitable outcomes that truly reflect lived experience.

To stand out, strong submissions should demonstrate:

- Genuine co-design and shared governance
- Clear evidence of community, participant, and/or partner influence on key decisions
- Evidence of trust-building and equitable processes
- Active use of social impact measurement to align partners and drive collective action.

If you want to submit an entry for a different award category, please click on the correct link on the SIMNA Awards home page. If you have any questions about the categories, please contact SIMNA's Executive Officer, Laura Glynn, at laura@simna.com.au.

Supporting documents

In addition to the word limits, you may attach either:

- a five-page document (A4, 10pt or equivalent) containing a logic model/theory of change, images, graphics, and supporting evidence; or
- a five-minute video presentation.

Judges are only asked to review supporting information within these limits. Anything beyond that may not be considered.

Judging process

The SIMNA Awards celebrate those that have undertaken high quality social impact measurement AND are using social impact measurement to improve decision-making.

Because of this, judging is conducted in two parts:

1. Purpose and pitch - This considers the extent to which the social impact measurement work is outstanding in its specific category and the degree to which decision-making and the delivery of social outcomes is (or will be) influenced by the results.
2. Technical quality - This considers the technical rigour which is evident in the project and the general application of the Principles of Social Value.

Q3. Who are your stakeholders and how are you involving them in your social impact measurement work? *

Word count:

Must be no more than 200 words.

Judges will take into account the degree to which the entry has engaged and responded to stakeholders (especially those who experience change). This relates to Principle 1.

Q4. How have you articulated and evidenced the change created through your organisation's activities? How did you verify these results? *

Word count:

Must be no more than 200 words.

Judges will take into account the methodologies used and how the findings were verified. This relates to Principles 2 and 7.

Q5. How did you determine what was important to measure and what to include in your findings? *

Word count:

Must be no more than 200 words.

Judges will take into account the degree to which the entry has considered material information and evidence to value what matters to stakeholders. This relates to Principles 3 and 4.

Q6. How openly are you sharing and communicating the findings of this impact measurement work? *

Word count:

Must be no more than 200 words.

Judges will take into account the degree to which the entry demonstrates an accurate and honest assessment of the change, including limitations and learnings and how this is shared with partners and stakeholders. This relates to Principles 5 and 6.

Q7. How is this impact measurement work being used in decision-making? *

Word count:

Must be no more than 200 words.

Judges will take into account the degree to which findings are actually being used in decision-making by the community and partners on areas such as strategy, program design and resource allocation. This relates to Principle 8.

Supporting documentation

You may submit one supporting document or link to support your application. This will not receive a score but will be read in conjunction with the overall application. This is not mandatory nor necessary for a winning entry!

You may attach either:

- a five-page document (A4, 10pt or equivalent) containing a logic model/theory of change, images, graphics, and supporting evidence; or
- a five-minute video presentation.

Judges are only asked to review supporting information within these limits. Anything beyond that may not be considered.

Attach files (optional)

Attach a file:

A maximum of 1 file may be attached.

Provide link (optional)

Must be a URL.

If the document or video is too large to upload into the form, you can upload it elsewhere and share a link.

Submission

Please ensure you submit your application. Once you have submitted it, you will receive an email with a PDF of your completed form attached.

What happens next? You'll hear from us with the outcome of your application by early November. Shortlisted finalists will be invited to produce a short pitch video (no more than 60 seconds) to share at the Awards Ceremony. This video isn't judged - it's simply your chance to share more about your social impact measurement initiative. Videos will be due by Friday 20 November. Winners and runners-up will be announced at our online Awards Ceremony at the end of November.
